FORCE MAJEURE

SPORTOURS shall not be responsible for delays in the trip schedule or any failure to arrive at destinations due to circumstances beyond its control, including, but not limited to acts of God, war mobilization, civil commotion, weather conditions, riots, embargoes, domestic or foreign regulation of orders, fires, floods, strikes, lockouts or other labor difficulties or shortages or unavailability of transportation. Trip cancellation/interruption insurance is highly recommended for this protection.

NO SNOW POLICY

In the event it becomes necessary in the sole judgment of SPORTOURS to cancel any tour for lack of snow, SPORTOURS will waive all cancellation charges and penalties set forth by SPORTOURS and refund all monies paid to, or on deposit with the suppliers of transportation in accordance with the refund policies as set forth by the airlines and suppliers (lodging and transfer companies). In the event of no snow, SPORTOURS will do its best to provide the group with an alternate ski destination, but still must adhere to the cancellation policy of the individual lodging companies. These policies vary by lodging company and some do not have a policy for no snow.

CONDITIONS CLAUSE

While SPORTOURS makes every effort to guarantee these prices, they cannot absorb such price increases beyond their control including fuel surcharges, tax increases, bankruptcy by airlines or suppliers or any other act outside the actual control of SPORTOURS. Trip participant(s) must absorb these increases. In the event of irregularities due to inclement weather, SPORTOURS is not responsible for providing hotel rooms, meal vouchers, travel on other airlines or other mode of transportation or payments for any other airlines or other expenses incurred. It is the policy of SPORTOURS to write letters to vendors on behalf of the Club (organization) to attempt to recoup additional out-of-pocket expenses incurred by the Club or its members arising from any such circumstances. This letter would be sent in conjunction with one sent from the Club describing the incident in detail.
